Description

This Summer Courses held so far, we have analyzed the importance of language in health services, analyzing its situation in international models, reflecting on the situation we are experiencing in Euskal Herria, and underlining the importance of research. The 2022 edition will be part of the active offer.

Linguistic services would be services offered by health institutions to overcome linguistic limitations between users and professionals, both human and technical. The active offer of languages served would consist of an invitation to use the default language, both oral and written, always before the request and without obliging users to request it. The active offer would be the set of measures at an institutional level that guarantee the visibility, accessibility and accessibility of linguistic services, the responsibility being that of the institutions and in no case that of the users.

In this summer course, a broad definition of the active offer adapted to the Basque Country will be worked on, putting the involvement of the community at the center. Its theoretical basis will be linguistic justice, the competency model and active agents. Taking all this into account, different proposals and interventions will be presented at a Basque and international level. When presenting the topics, the levels of supply will be followed: limit situations or lack of supply (Lander Garro), situation of identification of user needs (Alwena Morgan, Fredrika Niqvist), situation based on the supply of services (Urko Ikardo, Arantxa Lekuona), measurement and evaluation of active supply (Aitor Montes). Linguistic justice, ethics (Yael Peled) and the competency model (Huw Lewis) will also be addressed.

Objectives

Preparation of the active offer model.

Explain and learn the different definitions of active offer in different contexts.

Explain and learn the theoretical foundations of the active offer: language, justice and competency model.

Present how the implementation and evaluation of the active offer can be carried out in different locations and levels.

Reflection on the active offer measurement methodology: measure knowledge, attitude and capacity.

Arantza Lekuona

Nire ibilbide profesionalen euskararen erabilera eta kudeaketaren inguruko interesa izan dut, eta horren ondorioz, ahal izan dudun neurrian, Euskara Batzordeetan parte hartu dut eta hainbat ekintzen sustapenetan. KABIaren kasuan, erakundea 2015ean abian jarri zenetik bertako gerentea izan naiz, eta hasieratik bultzatu dut euskara kudeaketan txertatua egon dadin. Aurretik izan dudun esperientzia guztiak lagundu dit helburu hori bideratzen.
