In the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development by the United Nations there is no link between development and languages and cultures; even less linked to minoritized and endangered languages. Nevertheless, Basque people are working on sustainable development together with the revitalization of Basque language. This same process can be seen in other places or language-communities too, such as the Nasa community in Colombia.

In this Course, in addition to a presentation of the book about this matter with the contributions of international experts, the cases of the Basque Country, Latin America and Africa (Cameroon) will be presented.

Objectives

Explain the link between collaboration for sustainable development and language cooperation, and spread the knowledge about the relation with each other.

Deepen into the characteristics not acknowledged of the linguistic revitalization processes.

Remark the value of minoritized and endangered languages in development.

Show and create alliance networks between the Basque Country and minoritized and endangered languages (and communities) around the world.

Deepen in the understanding about the value of development of the multilingual education based on the minoritized language.

Deepen in the understanding of language diversity and minoritized and endangered languages, and the sensibilization towards them.
